At the time of writing, it is Friday afternoon, which means tomorrow is Saturday and that means pancakes for breakfast! It's the one breakfast that everyone in the family eats.

Now pretty much everyone loves pancakes, but the thing is I think most people only ever cook one or two different recipes, preferring instead to stick with the tried and tested. I am here to tell you it is time to try something new... Below is a link to a post that features some of the best pancake recipes online; don't worry there are both sweet and savory recipes, well actually there are twenty five sweet recipes and just two savory recipes (both bacon!).
