28 Tips For Cooling Your Home This Summer

Categories : General

Given the choice of being freezing cold or boiling hot, I will always choose the cold conditions. In most cases it is simply easier to warm up than it is to cool down, especially when outdoors. That said I am at the mercy of the weather so I don't really get a choice...

It is pretty warm where we are right now, the upstairs in our house get especially hot due to being well insulated. Once the heat gets in during the daytime, it stays in during the night which makes sleeping uncomfortable, especially for the kids. If like us you are struggling a bit with the heat, check out the post below which lists some great tips for staying cool at home. It also contains some advice on cutting the cost or air conditioning running costs.
28 Tips For Cooling Your Home This Summer