Homesteading is awesome! There simply is nothing like doing it for yourself. Drilling a well, growing your own fruit and vegetables and keeping chickens and other livestock; the sense of independence is amazing, not to mention the security living more off-the-grid brings.

But, and it's a big but! Homesteading is hard work! It's much quicker to go to the store and purchase some potatoes, rather than growing them. It's much easier to purchase some eggs, rather than keeping chickens... That's why if you homestead, I recommend checking out the post below from 'The Prairie Homestead' which shares more than 70 hacks, tips and trick to make homesteading that little bit easier.
