I can hear some of you screaming GUNS, GUNS, GUNS...

But hold on a minute and have a read of the excellent detailed article below that weighs up the pros and cons. I am sure it will give you some food for thought. There is a strong case for a firearm as the primary weapon for SHTF, but you should never rely on just one tool in survival situations - what if you run out of ammo? I know people who have forgone firearms and are planning to rely solely on crossbows or compound bows, I see their thinking - silent, deadly and an unlimited supply of ammo.

Check out the article below, at the very least, it might make you consider the use of a crossbow or traditional bow as a back-up to your firearms.
