Avoid The 6 Common Mistakes New Gardeners Usually Make

Categories : Growing your Own, Homesteading

Getting into growing your own fruit and vegetables can be very exciting (even more so if you have young kids!). The problem is - if you jump into gardening without some care and attention, your crops will be doomed to fail, and then you'll likely give up on your new gardening hobby...

The article below from 'Old World Garden Farms' is so accurate, many new gardeners, if not all new gardeners, will make some or all of these mistakes. In fact at one time or another, I made all of these mistakes when I was first starting out growing my own food. Check out the article below, and don't make the same mistakes I did!
