Have you ever gone out to check on your vegetables and plants, only to find something has ate them? I know I sure have! Thank god, there is a simple way to stop those pesky animals from ruining your crop. Build a bed enclosure.

This project is really simple to do and even looks really nice and professional. I would even hang some solar lights on them so they are a feature to look at at night, but I'm a night owl, so I'm probably the only one that would ever think of that.
