Gramdma's Five Bean Hotdish

I saw this dish/recipe suggested as an awesome quick and easy dish to take to a potluck. The main ingredients are the five different beans, but they are also accompanied by a generous helping of ground beef and bacon...

I am sure this hotdish would be awesome for a potluck, and by all means get the recipe and use it for one! However I couldn't help but see this is actually an AWESOME recipe to use up emergency preparedness supplies, in an emergency scenario. Almost every ingredient other than the bacon come ready-preserved in tins/jars etc. Actually I even saw tinned bacon the other day too. It could even be cooked in a Dutch oven over a campfire. Who said survival food has to be boring?
