Categories : DIY, Homesteading, Self-Sufficiency, Water

To feel truly self-sufficient and live off-the-grid, you need a running water source on your land, or you need to be able to drill a well. You cannot rely on harvested rainwater alone...

You can pay a company to come onto your land and drill you a well, but it is much cheaper, and way more satisfying to locate and dig your well yourself. Above is a video that explains how to locate and where to drill your well, and if you click here, there's another video showing how to drill a well by hand.

Additionally, if you ar serious about drilling your own well, I highly recommend the book: Waterhole: How To Dig Your Own Well
