Almost everyone has some space to spare next to their refrigerator in the kitchen, but lots of people don't have enough cupboard space. Do you see where I am going with this? The photo of the DIY space-saving sliding cabinet probably gave it away too... This is a great way to utilize a small slot of space to the maximum.

This a great little DIY project for folks short on cupboard space. A sliding cabinet like this would work well anywhere there is a slot of space big enough. It could also work well in a garage/workshop etc. If you like the look of it, and you want to give it a go, head over to 'Learning To Be Me' and check out their build tutorial.

How To Build This Awesome Space-Saving Sliding Cabinet