How To Cook A (Whole) Chicken In A Coffee Can

Given the precautions about eating under cooked chicken, I was a bit skeptical about using this method, but when done properly, the main issue would seem to be over cooking the chicken, rather than under cooking, or uneven cooking. Turns out this is a great way to cook a whole chicken when camping, if the power's off, or in SHTF scenarios.

Simply put - you place some wood and charcoal in the base of the coffee (or any size 10) can, wrap the chicken in foil and then leave to cook. To get the full information, check out the link below.

How To Cook A (Whole) Chicken In A Coffee Can

(Photo from: Survival Tek)