How To Make Beautiful Braided T-Shirt Rugs For Nothing

If there is one thing I seem to have loads of, it is old t-shirts... I just never seem to throw them out or donate them, but luckily I now have a use for them!

These DIY braided t-shirt rugs can be made any size/shape you like and they are perfect for the bedroom or the bathroom. You simply cut the t-shirts into strips, braid them, coil them and sew them very simply so they stay in place. They might look complicated or time-consuming to make, but they are not at all. I think you could create a small bedside rug in an evening whilst watching TV etc. My seven year old daughter loves knitting, so we might make one together for her room.

How To Make Beautiful Braided T-Shirt Rugs For Nothing

(Image from: suzelac via Instructables)