I believe it’s wise to master a variety of techniques and possess several tools to start a fire. Regardless of how you chose to start your fire, there is a DIY powerful and inexpensive fire starting gel from basic household chemicals you can make inexpensively.

This is a little project I will be trying out this weekend. Click the link below to read the great article and watch a video.

How To Make Fire Starting Gel from Household Chemicals

(Picture Credit: matthewvenn)