Build An Emergency Survival Kit For Your Kids At School

This is an important thing to consider, which is usually overlooked... Sure, you can’t send your kids to school with knives, Leatherman multi-tools or matches/lighters, but there is still a whole load of useful things you can pack into a small pack, which shouldn’t cause too many issues at school.

For your child to carry it every day, it will have to be a small light pack, but please don't underestimate the usefulness of a few small key items in an emergency situation; a small LED flashlight, a whistle, an emergency foil blanket and a couple of granola bars, could make all the difference. To read more about putting together an emergency survival kit for your kids, check out the post below from 'Mom With Prep'.

Make An Emergency Survival Kit For Kids At School

(Photo from: Mom With Prep)