Herbal and alternative treatments already available provide plenty of choices for the person who suffers from conjunctivitis, and information suggests these remedies are equally beneficial. However in severe cases medical attention is recommended. It is important to seek medical diagnosis for eye problems and to consult with your doctor if you have any questions.

If you had no access to a doctor, tho and you were in a SHTF situation at least you could have this natural way to try. Click the link below to see the full article and what herbal and alternative treatments you can use.

Natural Remedies for Conjunctivitis

(Picture Credit: herbs.lovetoknow.com)