Are you one of the thousands upon thousands of people who look at organic gardening as something mystical or from the "Hippie" age? You can rest assured there is nothing mystical about using "mother natures" own creations (natural elements), produced by the earth and animals, to plant your own natural garden.

The information provided in this article will dispel the so called "mysticism" idea of organic growing held by many. I just love organic gardening. You always know whats been put on the plant and you can almost guarantee you get the best out of the plant, the way mother nature wanted.
