Prepper's To-Do List: 100 Tasks (How Many Have You Done?)

I think that often preppers get caught up with planning for, and only focusing on, a disastrous future event, with many preppers simply stockpiling vast amounts of food, water, weapons and other supplies...

The problem is - when you only live and plan so far in the future, you can be guilty of neglecting the more day-to-day tasks which are also part and parcel of effective emergency preparedness. There are so many simple little things you can do today, which would help you tomorrow, next week, or next year, should the worst happen. Something like always ensuring your vehicle is topped up with gas, could be just as important as purchasing more dehydrated food rations. Check out the preppers to-do list below for more simple ideas.

Prepper's To-Do List: 100 Tasks (How Many Have You Done?)

(Photo from: cogdogblog)