Prepping for 5 Bucks

Categories: General Prepping, Self-Sufficiency

Prepping or being equipped to deal with an unexpected event or disaster is important, and can provide peace of mind in uncertain times. Whether your 'event' is economic collapse, job loss or a destructive hurricane or just plain outright nuclear disaster, gathering items to ensure your family's safety and comfort should be a priority. However, it can be difficult to even consider prepping when your current budget is already stretched too thin.

I am always looking for ways to stretch my own budget and I stumbled on an article that has a list of preps you can start stockpiling under or at around 5 bucks. You don't always need to be rich to survive, you just need great knowledge and determination to start prepping.
