Many of the followers of K.W.N are experienced outdoors people with a good knowledge of primitive survival skills, but many more are not experienced in what to do when you find yourself in a survival situation. What you do in those first few minutes and hours will largely decide your fate. You do not want to make rash decisions whilst your heart rate is up and you are scared. Now is the time for calm. No matter what the situation, you need to calm yourself before committing to any decisions. You don’t want to look back hours later with regret...

Try to remember the acronym - STOP - stop/sit, think, observe, plan. Check out the awesome post below from 'ITS Tactical', which goes into much more detail on what you should do when you find yourself in a survival situation. Check it out, it might be one of the most important things you learn from K.W.N.

Priorities In A Survival Situation (Your Future Is Never Guaranteed)

(Photo from: Naval History & Heritage Command)