Staying Found - By Being Prepared

Categories: General Prepping, Wilderness Survival

Being found in an emergency situation is the most important things on ever ones mind. This amazing article goes through what plan you need to make with a friend or loved one. Making a plan is just another form of being prepared, and we all know that when we are prepared we are more likely to stay alive.

I use this plan on all my hiking adventures and luckily never had to use it, but I sure do feel good every time I go out because I prepared. You could even use this on everyday outings because you just never know what could happen these days.
